

Enrol to vote as the spouse, de facto partner or child of an overseas elector for federal elections

AEC

Australian Electoral Commission

Who can use this form?

You can use this form to enrol if you are currently living outside Australia and:

- you have never been enrolled
- you are an Australian citizen
- you are 18 years or older and had not turned 18 before leaving Australia
- you are the spouse, de facto partner or child of a person who is registered as an overseas elector and living with or near them overseas, and
- you intend to return to live in Australia within six years after your 18th birthday.

Note: 'Child' includes a child born outside of marriage, an adopted child or a child within the meaning of the Family Law Act 1975.

Is it compulsory to enrol and vote?

No, but if you are enrolled and don't either vote or apply for a postal vote, your enrolment as an overseas elector may be cancelled.

In which division can you enrol?

You must enrol for the same division that your parent, spouse or de facto partner is enrolled.

What happens when your circumstances change?

By enrolling as an overseas elector, your name will be retained on the roll for a period of six years while you are away.

If, after leaving Australia, you find that you will be away for more than six years, you can apply in writing to the Divisional Returning Officer at info@aec.gov.au to have your overseas enrolment extended by one year at a time. You must do this in the three months before your registration is due to expire.

Overseas voting arrangements for federal elections

There are three options for voting from overseas:

Option 1 — You can register as a general postal voter at Question 11 for federal elections and referendums. You will be sent ballot papers as soon as practicable after the declaration of nominations.

Option 2 — You can vote in person on or before polling day, at an Australian overseas mission which provides full consular services.

During an election period a full list of overseas voting locations is available at www.aec.gov.au

Option 3 — If you do not register as a general postal voter and you cannot vote in person, you may apply for a postal vote. To do so, contact an Australian overseas mission, any AEC office in Australia or download an 'Application for a postal vote' from the AEC website at www.aec.gov.au. Arranging a postal vote is your responsibility.

Note: Provisions for voting as an overseas elector for state and territory elections can vary and you can obtain relevant information from the relevant state or territory authority.

Who has access to your enrolment information?

The Commonwealth of Australia

The Australian Electoral Commission (AEC) is authorised under the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918 (CEA) to collect and verify the information you have been asked to complete on this form. The information provided will assist the AEC to maintain electoral rolls.

The AEC may disclose electoral information to persons or organisations in accordance with the CEA. This may include:

- access to the publicly available electoral roll (containing names and addresses) which may be inspected at electoral offices
- state and territory electoral authorities
- Members of Parliament, Senators, registered political parties, and candidates for the House of Representatives
- approved medical research and public health screening programs
- any agencies, persons or organisations prescribed in the Electoral and Referendum Regulations 1940.
