Question: The case for retaining the name Corangamite is very strong. It is one of the original electoral names and links the area with the Aboriginal custodians. Admirable as the contribution of May Cox may have been the case for using her name in the electorate is weak. Corangamite is also a very attractive name. Our area has already lost a lovely Aboriginal name when Barrabool was changed to the anodyne Surf Coast Shire, a name of little relevance to the inland communities.
