Dear Australian Electoral Commission,

I hereby advocate that Corangamite Electorate be changed from the proposed name of Cox and renamed "Electorate of Barrabool" after the Aboriginal tribe, geographic location, namely the Barrabool Hills, which is a distinctive land feature in Victoria and the former Shire of Barrabool, now SurfCoast shire, which is entirely located within the current electorate of Corangamite.

It is worth noting there was a Shire of Corio which was amalgamated into the City of Greater Geelong and the current Shire of Corangamite, so those two Aboriginal names are used, unlike Barrabool.

Furthermore there is a community of interest between the Bellarine Peninsula and the Surfcoast Shire so I support these two areas inclusion in the new electorate.

Yours truly,

Lorelle Sunderland.
