To whom it may concern,

I am writing to condemn the proposed scrapping of the seat of Gwydir. If anything should be scrapped, it should be some minor seat in a metropolitan area.

The rural area is under-represented as it is.

The advertising that I have seen in a newspaper states that the changes are not up for appeal.

We will see about that.

We the rural people of Australia, particularly NSW, will fight this trend and make as much noise as possible. Given enough time, the lid on the boiling pot will explode and consequently some kind of showdown occurs when unfairness continues at an unreasonable level.

I strongly recommend that you heed our wishes and retract from scrapping any further rural electoral areas.

Yours truly,

Neil McGinn.
