To the above,

I am sure your people who have been responsible for the proposal massively affected balance electorate are certainly not familiar with the vastness of what it would become. If they knew anything of the country of NSW they would realize the impossibility of an elected representative doing justice to such a huge chunk. My husband and I are amazed - and we have lived in far western NSW for many years before doing a medical and been involved with various politicians and heard the problem reported by the in getting around ever morely ever. It also serves to emphasize that country people's votes are less likely to have influence on outcomes than their city cousins.

Sincerely

Patricia and John Coffey
