Dear Sir,

It is not hard to see from your address why you are hell bent on eliminating any political representation of Gwydir electorate which is not on the coast or in the city.

People inland have had a terrible few years through droughts, O H and S legislation, NILS of stock, and rising fuel costs, etc. All additional expense with no additional improvement of returns, and all you can do to help is to increase the size of our electorate to an impossible size which can never be serviced efficiently by any member. It has been bad enough in the last 10 years trying to get something worth while done in the Gwydir Electorate. The population has been moving away due to the harsh conditions existing here, but could be reversed by good seasons and given a fairer go politically I used to believe that all people would get reasonably fair government, but that was an unrealistic notion.

The other sad part about this situation, is that any tax paid in this electorate would certainly only be spent in the city or elsewhere.

Hoping you can rectify this stupid proposal immediately, and never suggest it again.

John Burey
