Dear Sir,

I read with interest articles about the redistribution of seats and that NSW stands to lose one electorate to Queensland. I have also read that it may be a country seat, and that Mrs Hulls seat in Riverina is one under threat.

I cannot protest loudly enough re the pressure this would put on country people. The electorates in country areas are already too large and any further enlargement is only going to make it more difficult to access a member of parliament.

To me it makes more sense to amalgamate some of the closer city electorates where members have less distance to travel to meet the needs of their constituents.

Mrs Hull is doing an exceptional job and it would be a pity to upset the balance in country areas where there are many pressing problems to overcome.

Yours Sincerely,

Evelyn Fuller, Riverina
