Electoral Boundary Changes, & Abolishment of the Seat North Sydney

The AEC has done a great job to all the boundary changes. I particularly like what has been done to the seats of Cunningham and Whitlam. It has very much embraced the demographics of the areas as well as the geographical locations. A few people had the crazy idea of shifting the seats outside their regions, which would have been terrible. It is great that both these seats will remain within the location of the Illawarra/Southern Highlands. All of the changes made within Sydney are also great. I am unsure as to why the seat North Sydney was chosen to be scrapped, given its federation name status. Perhaps the AEC can look to scrap the name 'Warringah' instead, given it doesn't hold any real significance.
