Submission details

Submission: Boundaries

Details: In a time of climate change where our landscapes are undergoing more often extreme events linked with storms, rainfall, floods, heatwaves, fires & drought. We need to manage our catchments through public & private land to ensure the catchment maintains ecological integrity to withstand climate change risk. This helps support established infrastructure, assets and community well being. By aligning boundaries with the catchment, the people that live within the catchment become intimately linked with the governance of that catchment. Ecology is Economy, so we need to ensure that those elected and working for the people, best represent the land based environment the people live within.
