Submission details

Submission: Names and Boundaries
Details: I'm only an amateur 18 year old election watcher, but I have a couple suggestions/comments:

1. Rename the electorate of Moreton - given it shares a namesake with the geographical feature of Moreton Bay, but is located nowhere near it, this has the potential to confuse voters. Perhaps it could be renamed Hayden, after the Brisbane local Governor-General of Australia Bill Hayden. Alternatively, the electorate name Maiwar has been dropped by the Queensland Electoral Commission, replaced by Indooroopilly. Since Moreton lies on the Brisbane River, Maiwar would also work, retaining traditional First Nation's name connection to the river.

2. Another suggestion based on the potential for confusion - redistribute to include the entire suburb of Oxley into the electorate of Oxley. While both are independently named after explorer John Oxley, this only has the potential to cause confusion about the electorate boundary.
