Submission on the proposed South Australian redistribution details

Category: Boundaries

Details: Retaining the Grey electorate as a country-only seat is critical to protecting fair and effective representation. Rural communities face fundamentally different challenges to peri-urban areas, and those differences deserve a dedicated voice. Expanding the boundary to include peri-urban populations risks overwhelming country voters with larger population centres, ultimately diluting rural priorities. This is not just about geography, its about ensuring regional communities are not politically sidelined by population imbalance.
