Submission on the proposed South Australian redistribution details

Category: Boundaries

Details: I do not believe that newly developed suburban areas, such as those like Riverlea in Roseworthy, should be included in the existing rural and regional electorate of Grey. Suburban areas and rural areas are populated by different people, with vastly different needs and concerns. It would be impossible for one member to accurately represent the needs of both kinds of areas, and the impact of city life is likely to be detrimental to those in the country. The country already struggles with fair representation at a government level (look at the size of the Grey electorate already - 1 member, 1 voice in parliament is meant to adequately advocate for people from such a wide area that they cant possibly all share the same needs and concerns) so please dont further complicate things by adding urban areas into our zone.
