I vehemently object to the Redistribution Committee having the audacity to believe they can reinvent history by wanting to change the name of the Gray area covering the large part of our State. This electorate was named after a former Governor of South Australia and his contribution to establishing the Colony of South Australia. So what are our bureaucrats trying to supplant their wishes or those of a minority of distant who believe we should replace Gray with O'Donoghue, just because she is a latter well known person. This is about as stupid as (sometimes half changing) renaming streets, areas, parks, buildings, etc. To aboriginal names which we are supposed to use and any visitor to our State or country has no idea what or where these places are. Also renaming Ayres Rock and Fraser Island is just bloody stupid and confusing. (As many others in our Country) Is it our stupid bureaucrats job to rewrite Australia also or is this stupidity just to keep them in well paid (by government) jobs. I, like many others have just sat back and allowed this crap to filtrate a country I love. Sincerely
John Heinrich
